

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0083] . Methods, software and devices for searching and indexing information are disclosed. Information to be searched is organized as a plurality of responses to queries. A Boolean expression is associated with each response. The Boolean expression for each response is applied to a received query for information. Which of the responses is or are presented is based on the results of the application of the Boolean expressions to the query.